

THE HAND

Words and music © Dan Higgins 2015

I don't know why seasons come and seasons go
I don't know why it feels warm before it snows
But I know somehow when you let your tears fall
Someone will catch them before they hit the ground

You don't know who but there's someone out there
Thinking of you all they do is care
They would drive all night to be where you are
To let you know it will be okay

Like a freight train, can feel like solid pain
But you know there's sunshine after rain

Oh I heard that you sent a prayer above
Every word was a heart felt of love
If I could I would take it all away
Let the music be a reason for you to stay

I don't know why but I know there's a God that does
He says my child don't fly alone
There's more to life than your eye can see
Just leave it all up to me

When life seems to be shades of grey
There's an open door to another way

So I hope at the end of the day
You'll be there smiling cause you say
It was all part of a greater plan
Love is strong you need to take a hand

There is always a hand to carry you
Take hold of the hand just for you
